A REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER LOOK OUT WE ARE COMING, Our Motto This Week and Next, "Skinn 'em,"

When you hear one of these two-by-four politicians running around over the country telling that some of the nominees of the Republican party is going to be defeated at the November election, you just say to him that the man who voted for Mr. Roosevelt last fall had some good reason for doing so, but Mr. Roosevelt is not a candidate this fall, not even for Constable.

THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY IS DEAD

Recent election, and enrollment of voters, in various parts of the United States show beyond all question that the so-called "Progressive Party" is dead, and that the only thing the supporters of that party can or will ever claim to have accomplished is that it so divided the Republican vote in November, 1912, as to enable a Democratic President. That short story is a complete summary of all it has ever done and all it will ever do. That the death knell of the "Progressive Party" has been sounded in every part of the country is completely demonstrated by the following short summary of events:

NEW YORK

The party enrollment in the State of New York now finds a bare handful declaring for the Bull Moose Party. In New York there is a preliminary enrollment of voters and it is required by law that each voter at the time of enrolling shall declare his party affiliation. Only those who enroll as members of a given party can sign nominating papers for candidates of that party—that is, a Republican voter who enrolls his name as a Republican can only sign the nominating petitions of Republican candidates, and the same is true as to a voter who enrolls as a Democrat, and it is likewise as true to Progressive. This party enrollment just recently compiled shows that of the 390,021 voters who voted for Roosevelt in November, 1912, in New York State, 359,644 now declare and enroll themselves as Republicans, and refused to affiliate with the Progressives. For every thirteen voters who cast their votes for Roosevelt in 1912 in the State of New York, twelve of that same number are with the Republican Party, and in all probability the other one has deserted the Bull Moose craft by this writing. In the city of New York where Roosevelt polled 188,869, in 1912, the Progressive Party enrolled in 1913, 12,373. In a little more than five months 176,496 voters went back into the Republican Party.

MICHIGAN

In November, 1912, Roosevelt received 214,584 votes in the State of Michigan. At the State election for Justices of the Supreme Court of Michigan in April, 1913, after an active campaign by the Progressives in which Roosevelt, Beveridge and others appealed to the voters to vote the Progressive ticket, 123,526 of these same voters who had voted for Roosevelt five months before voted the Republican ticket. Roosevelt carried Michigan by 62,000 in 1912, but the State went Republican by 86,000 in April, 1913, and the Progressive Party in that State was completely wiped out.

ST. LOUIS

In November, 1912, Roosevelt received 24,691 votes in the City of St. Louis. In the City election in April, 1913, the Progressive candidate for Mayor, received only 4,622 votes. The municipal campaign was extremely bitter and partisan and the Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Socialist parties each made aggressive canvasses. Colonel Roosevelt wrote a letter appealing to the progressives to vote for Gerhart (The Progressive candidate for Mayor). This letter was printed in the city papers and sent as a circular to all the voters. In his letter, Mr. Roosevelt denounced the Republican candidate for Mayor, who was a delegate to the Chicago convention. The Republican (Kiel) was elected, receiving 10,625 more votes than were cast for Mr. Taft, while the Progressive candidate received 20,159 less than Mr. Roosevelt.

These incidents, in widely separated territory, (New York, Michigan and Missouri,) demonstrate that very few men who voted for Mr. Roosevelt in 1912 ever intended to form a new party and that they are embracing the first opportunity to re-affirm their allegiance to the Republican party. Let those who claim the Progressive Party is not dead analyze these figures:

1912—Roosevelt vote in New York (State)	390,021
1912—Progressive Party enrollment in New York	30,377

Back in the Republican Party	369,644
1912—Roosevelt vote in Michigan	214,584
1913—Progressive vote in Michigan	90,585

Back in the Republican party	123,526
1912—Roosevelt vote in St. Louis	24,691
1913—Progressive vote in St. Louis	4,622

Back in the Republican party	20,169
1912—Roosevelt vote in New York City	188,869
1913—Progressive enrollment in N. Y. City	12,373

Back in the Republican Party	176,496
------------------------------	---------

KENTUCKY

The complete complete wiping out of the Progressive Party is no where more thoroughly demonstrated than by results of the State-wide Primary held in this State on August 2nd, 1913. In seventy-three of the 120 counties no nominations were made by the Progressives—in all of these seventy-three no candidates—it has no votes. Although the State paid the expenses of holding the Primary and Progressive nominations could have been had in these counties, no one thought the nomination worth having.

Of the 100 members who will be elected to the Lower House of the General Assembly of Kentucky this fall, not a single member will be a Progressive. In most cases they made no nominations and in cases where they nominated candidates their vote is so small they have no chance of election.

How well these facts are supported is shown by the following returns of the recent Primary:

1912—Bell county vote,	Republicans, 1,185; Progressive, 1,705
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 2,875; Progressive, 48
1912—Whitley county vote,	Republicans, 996; Progressive, 2,036
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 3,900; Progressive, 88
1912—Pulaski county vote,	Republicans, 1,731; Progressive, 1,785
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 1,731; Progressive, 318
1912—Lewis county vote	Republicans, 1,185; Progressive, 1,068
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 2,344; Progressive, 10
1912—Lee county vote,	Republicans, 570; Progressive, 490
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 1,119; Progressive, 45
1912—Johnson county vote,	Republicans, 998; Progressive, 1,264
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 2,033; Progressive, 182
1912—Greenup county vote,	Republicans, 923; Progressive, 889
1913—Primary vote,	Republicans, 1,305; Progressive, 0

In Campbell county, where the Progressives polled 2,600 votes in 1912, this year they could only muster 43. In Kenton county out of approximately 14,000 votes, the Progressives only polled 28 votes.

In each county above mentioned the Progressives made nominations in the August Primary, but the slight vote polled by that party shows it amounts to practically nothing; that the rank and file of those who voted for Mr. Roosevelt in 1913, never at any time intended to leave the Republican Party; it shows that the men who voted the Republican ticket in 1896, after the "Free Silver Campaign," and continued to vote the Republican ticket during the sixteen years of prosperity under Republican administration, and until the coming of President Wilson and his free-trade Congress, are still Republicans.

All this shows that the so-called politicians who have tried to break up the Republican Party, have utterly failed in their efforts; that the great masses of the voters are now with the party of Lincoln and McKinley. It shows that the demagogue, who have for their own personal ambition sought to deceive the voters into leaving the Republican Party, have brought down upon themselves the avenging wrath of an enraged public, and that sure and swift annihilation is waiting for every Progressive candidate at the coming November election. It shows that the Progressive candidates for office instead of riding a fleeting chime of political approval, almost supported as they have claimed, by angels' wings—instead of that, they have put their bodies into a hearse and have ridden into the grave yard with the Progressive Party, and there, in the grave yard of that party, on the 8th day of November, 1913, every progressive candidate for office in the State of Kentucky and his hopes, if he has any, will be buried beneath an avalanche of a Republican vote.

Republican Committee Meets

At a meeting of the Republican Committeemen of the different voting Precincts, of Knox County, on Monday, September 1st, 1913, a Republican Campaign Committee was selected. The officers are as follows:

C. C. Smith, Chairman; Prof. Jno. W. Hughes, Vice Chairman; William W. Lawson, Secretary, and E. E. Evans, Treasurer.

The Republican Campaign Committee will begin at once a vigorous campaign on behalf of all the Republican nominees for County offices, in Knox County. The meeting was harmonious and everybody present went away feeling that the entire Republican ticket in Knox County will be elected at the coming November election by a larger majority than any Republican ticket has ever carried Knox County.

The County Committee also completed its organization by electing a Republican committeeman for the unexpired term in the recently created Precincts, and by filling vacancies at Wilton, Messer and Artemus. The newly elected committeemen are as follows: Artemus, Fielding Gibson; Messer, Frank Davis; Wilton, Joe Frost; Bertha,

Dr. M. Pennington; Emanuel, John Turner; DeWitt, Wm. Mills; Wheeler, Grant Fuson; Trooper, D. P. Martin.

The most interesting incident of meeting was, when the Committee publicly called upon Mr. W. R. Marsee of Artemus, Kentucky, to know whether or not he was a Bull Moose or a Republican, and when Mr. Marsee said that he had voted the Progressive ticket and that he did not know what he would do in the future, the committee proceeded to elect Mr. Fielding Gibson, a prominent Republican and merchant of Artemus, Kentucky, to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Marsee's infidelity to the Republican party.

The people of the County can feel assured that the interests of the Republican party will be properly and vigilantly guarded by the Republican Committee as now organized. Many of the County's most honorable and prominent citizens are now members of the Republican County Committee.

What do you think of the fellow who runs around and swears that a great man he is, and how many battles he has fought for the defense of the Flag, who would vote the Bull Moose ticket this fall? Don't you think he is like a boy who would throw stones at his granddaddy.

TO THE PUBLIC:

With this issue, THE MOUNTAIN ADVOCATE changes hands, and we as its editor, am desirous of making this the leading newspaper of Eastern Kentucky; and, in order to do so, I must have the hearty support of all Republicans in a political way, and all the people in a social, fraternal and religious way. It is our intention to give to our readers the news of our City and County as well as State news, and to do all in our power for the betterment of mankind in every way possible for us to do.

The politics of this paper is true blue Republican, standing ready and willing to do battle for the Party and its cause, and in doing so, we wish to say to our Democratic brothers and to our Republican brothers, who have strayed away from the fold that whatever we may say in our editorials is not meant to an individual, but to the Party as a whole. We have no motto, except to do the right to all and to give the general news to our readers in as clear, concise manner as we know how.

If you have any news please tell it to us; we will be glad to mention it in our columns. Tell us of your births, deaths and marriages. If a friend comes to see you, tell us about it. Let us say something good about them so they will feel when they shall have gone that it was good that they came among us. If you have something to sell, let us tell it to the Public through the columns of our paper. If you are going away, tell us so we will be glad to announce the same to our friends.

We hope in the near future to make this paper a real newsy paper with eight (8) pages each week. Will you help us?

W. H. McDONALD.

WE HAVE TODAY IN THE UNITED STATES TWO GREAT POLITICAL PAR-TIES, REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC.

Some men say they vote the way they shot; but we believe they vote the way they ran; that's how some of them did at least.

It makes us tired to hear a man, who is running on the Bull Moose ticket, say "we are Republicans"— a catch phrase—but it will not catch a single genuine Republican voter.

A yard long and a foot thick, and all wool, warranted not to rip, ravel, not to reel or run down at the heel, is the kind of a paper we purpose to make the Advocate, and every line of it for the cause of the Republican party.

It has been said by some local politicians that the Democratic Congress and Senate together with the aid of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, have managed up to this time to get the tariff off of castor oil.

These fellows who were nominated for various offices in Knox county in the Primary election, on the Bull Moose ticket would have you believe that there is a great deal of dissatisfaction among the 2,557 Republicans who took part in the Primary, August 2nd. Not in the least, my Bull Moose friends, the Republicans will elect every man named on their ticket nominated at the Primary, and don't you forget it.

In last week's issue of the Peoples News, there was a card written by Rev. J. H. Blackburn in which he said something about the smoke clearing away. Wonder who caused all the smoke, the 500 and some odd Bull Moosers, or the 2,557 Republicans? It was not quite so smoky then as it will be when Frank Mitchell gets through with him on the 4th day of November.
What do you say?

Removing Finger Marks.

Finger marks on doors will quickly disappear if rubbed with a clean piece of flannel dipped in paraffin. Afterward wipe with a clean cloth, in order to remove the smell of the oil.

What would you think if you belonged to the Bull Moose Party in Greenup county? At the August Primary there were the candidates for different County Offices in that County and when the polls were closed, it was found out that not a single man of them received a vote.
That's going some.

Hon. Jon C. Lay, the Republican nominee for Representative, was in town Monday, shaking hands with his friends, who congratulated him over his victory for the nomination.
Mr. C. is a hustler and defeated two good Republicans, who are loyal and true, and will support Mr. Lay and the Republican Ticket.

CARD

To the Nominees of the Republican Party and to my Fellow Republicans:—

It has been circulated over the good old County of Knox that I, James Bullock, had deserted the Republican Party and was affiliating with the Progressive or Bull Moose Party. I desire to say that this, in plain English, is a lie, and is circulated to hurt my fellow Republican nominees.

I was reared by a Republican father and a Republican mother and I am proud to know that I belong to such a Grand Old Party as the Republican Party, and my defeat for the nomination for the office of Jailer in the last August Primary did not make a Bull Moser of me;
nor did it make a Democrat of me.
And when the campaign comes on and the time for the election comes around, the party in which I was defeated will receive my assistance and vote. I will be found laboring in behalf of Mr. Frank J. Mitchell all the entire Republican ticket.

And just a word to the Bull Moosers and the Democrats. If you never receive an office until you get it by my vote or influence you will never be in possession of the key to the lower compartment of the Court House of the good old County of Knox and I guess you know what office is there.

Now if you good republicans have got any ginger in your heel and the backbone of a "True Blue," every one of the nominees of the Grand Old Party will be elected this fall, and we will put the Bull Moosers
so far out of the running this fall that there will be no danger of the Bull Moose ballot boxes ever having to be taken out of the attic of the Court House again. Let's put our shoulders to the wheel and keep the party of Lincoln, Grant and McKinley a glorious and a prosperous one.

Your friend,
JAMES BULLOCK.

Old Crimp will soon be here; what will become of the little squad who sit around on the seats prepared by the Civic League for the man who is weary and worn, after a whole day's work to sit upon and rest awhile, who is crowded out by this bunch who bum the tobacco they chew and spit upon the walks, and make remarks about everybody who passes, and has something real mean to say about every man whom they see passing who has accumulated some of this world's goods, and call him a rascal and swear that he has got it wrongfully when they—these bums—never work a day themselves, and do not try to make a living, but cuss the party who is in power and advocate Socialism, or in its plain meaning—Anarchism.

The Williams Stock Company is

auspices of the Red Men's Band.
They have a strong Company, and their plays are very entertaining

HON. F. D. SAMPSON

Judge Thirty-fourth District of Kentucky.

Judge Sampson has just received his Commission from the Chairman of the Committee of the Organization, as a delegate to their meeting at Quebec, which is as follows:

Office of
Committee on Co-operation with other Organizations.
134 Cardondelet, Street, New Orleans, La.

August 14th, 1913.

Judge Flen D. Sampson,
Barbourville Ky.

DEAR SIR:

I have been advised by the Governor of Kentucky, that you have been appointed a delegate at the request of my Committee to the Fifth Annual Meeting of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, to be held at Montreal, on September 3rd and 4th, 1913, and hope you will be able to attend.

For your information I herein enclose copy of the program.

Very truly yours,

W. O. HART.

Judge Sampson cannot attend as he is very busy in the September term of the Knox Circuit Court. It is regretted by the Judge's many friends that he cannot attend as we would be glad to have had him represent us.

We desire to thank the Governor of Kentucky, as well as the Committee for the honor they have conferred upon our much loved and honored Judge.

Pro Deo Et Homine

For God and Humanity. Under this inspiring motto were opened on Tuesday of this week, September 2nd, the Twenty-first anniversary exercises, inaugurating another years work at Union College.

The auspices are altogether encouraging. Although the attendance on this opening day was not quite up to the regular mark, it is readily accounted for by the fact that this is Fair week, and also owing to a number of the pupils of this college being engaged as teachers in public schools whose sessions will end later in the autumn and they will return to their regular studies. This is also largely the case at the B. B. I. and other educational institutions of Kentucky.

The Officers of this administration, are: President, Percy L. Ports; Vice-President, H. W. Ricketts; Secretary-Librarian, Abigail E. Weeks; Treasurer, B. C. Lewis.

The entire faculty for the current session and the general conditions and equipment at this institution point to the maintenance of the recognized high standard of its educational work in its various departments.

A prominent and popular feature of the work outlined for the present session is in connection with the Bryant and Stratton system of business education, a branch of which has been established here, and will occupy four rooms in the Boys' Dormitory building. This department opened under the supervision of Prof. Geo. W. Swartz, principal; Prof. J. T. Howard, vice-principal, and Miss Nettie M. Creal, lady principal, assisted by Bryant and Stratton trained teachers.

In the department of foreign languages, Latin and German are taught under the skilled tutelage of Vice-President Ricketts. In this connection your correspondent suggested to President Ports in a brief interview with that affable and scholarly gentleman, the addition of "Spanish," as a modern language study, it being one of the two great national languages of America, of the Western Hemisphere, of the twenty-one republics comprising North, Central and South America, with the Spanish-speaking portion of which we are rapidly coming into relationship through the construction of the Panama Canal and the International Railway to be finished to Panama by the time the canal is done.

The trustees of the University of Louisville have secured the services of Prof. Charles C. McMahon, of Princeton and Harvard Universities, as instructor in Spanish and French during the coming year.

Enjoyed an Outing On Indian Creek

A delightful outing was enjoyed during last week and a portion of the present week at Dishman Springs on Indian Creek, by Mrs. G. W. Tye and Mrs. F. D. Sampson and their children. A suitable country dwelling in the neighborhood had been rented for the occasion and for the time the city folks indicated became veritable rustics as far as the enjoyment of outdoor pastimes goes. If only the primitive Indians of the Indian Creek region could have returned to their original haunts thereabout from their "Happy Hunting Grounds, they doubtless would have been convinced of the "Pale Face" tribe's superiority when it comes to having a good time outdoors. To add to the enjoyment of the occasion and to extend as far as possible its benefits, at stated intervals the matrons above noticed gave dinners and parties on the grounds at Dishman Springs to which many others of the ladies of Barbourville and their children were invited during the week. All the participants in the week's series of picnics and sylvan parties at the classic summer resort mentioned express themselves as much refreshed by their experiences there after the long heated term and the little folks, the little boys particularly seem only to regret having ever had to return to civilization with its schools and other irksome duties.

No man is Stronger Than his Stomach

The Medical Adviser by

LET the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his strength will soon fail. One's stamina—force-fulness and strength of mind or muscle depend upon the blood, and the blood in turn, requires a healthy stomach, for the stomach is the laboratory where the food is digested and such elements are taken up—or assimilated—which make blood. In consequence all the organs of the body, such as heart, lungs, liver and kidneys, as well as the nervous system, feel the bad effect if the stomach is deranged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps the stomach to digest food properly, starts the liver into new activity, removing the poisons from the blood, and the various organs get rich, red blood, instead of being ill nourished. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over 40 years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form;
or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Invalids'
Hotel, Buffalo, and a trial box will be mailed you.

Can You Doubt It?

When the Proof Can Be so Easily Investigated.

When so many grateful citizens of this locality testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—it is almost at your door. Read what a resident of Williamsburg, says about Doan's

L. L. Peace, Attorney, Williamsburg, Ky., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills worthy of the highest praise. We have used them for years and gladly confirm the endorsement I gave them several years ago. I had kidney trouble for a number of years and being given a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them. They made a marked improvement. I can say that they are good for weak back and kidneys."
If your back aches—if your kidneys bother

FOURTEENTH

Anniversary Opening At The Barbourville Baptist Institute.

The fourteenth annual opening of the Barbourville Baptist Institute was made at that popular educational establishment for boys and girls, on the 2nd Inst., under encouraging auspices. Dr. Hutson, pastor of the local Baptist Church, opened the exercises with prayer, and was followed in an address to the pupils and their parents, friends and relatives in attendance by Prof. Lowry, principal of the school. Upon invitation, Prof. G. Brittain Lytle, late Professor of Spanish at The Baptist Woman's Missionary Union Training School of Louisville, spoke briefly and interestingly, emphasizing the correctness of the Principal's remarks to the pupils on the subject of "being good and working," as the underlying and indispensable conditions of a desirable and useful and happy place in society. Prof. Lytle touched also upon the importance of giving more attention to Spanish as a foreign language in our schools in view of our growing communications with Spanish American countries through the construction of the Panama Canal and the Intercontinental Railway.

Baptist Church
Prayer Meeting

The regular midweek prayer meeting was held at the Baptist church Wednesday evening. In the absence of the pastor, Dr. Hutson, Brother Amis conducted the service, reading from Acts 20, embracing notice of St. Paul's departure from the elders at Miletus.

Although the attendance this week was not large, and the warm weather oppressive, the meeting was one of the most animated and helpful, a number of the brethren and sisters leading in prayer and joining in the devotional songs and music. Patriarchs Lytle and Davis delivered feeling and edifying addresses from stores of scriptural lore and experiences along life's way, which were helpful indeed, and to the glory and praise of the Lord in high degree. A business meeting that had been assigned for this week was deferred to the next meeting a week from Wednesday. These midweek prayer meetings are to be held regularly during the ensuing portion of autumn and all winter at the Baptist church, and all who attend in a spirit of prayerful devotion are heartily welcome and cordially invited. "Jesus stood and cried, saying: If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink."—John vii, 37.

A banjo is a difficult instrument to do anything with. After you learn to play it, you have to spend a lot more time hunting up people who are willing to listen to it.

Nervous?

Mrs. Walter Vincent, of Pleasant Hill, N. C., writes: "For three summers, I suffered from nervousness, dreadful pains in my back and sides, and weak sinking spells. Three bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic, relieved me entirely. I feel like another person, now."

Twenty Thousand at Educational Barbecue

CO-OPERATION was the keynote of the great Camden barbecue, which was held in the huge woods pasture outside of Versailles on the 20th. Many noted speakers from every part of the United States told of the effects of co-operation among farmers, but the salient point of this social and educational event was that the host and his neighbors and his friends were an example of what co-operation can accomplish.

Co-operation Helped.

Your correspondent was congratulating Mr. Camden on the great success of his educational barbecue when he smiled and interrupted him by saying, "I am delighted that you feel as you do about this affair, but the thing which has made it a complete success is the co-operation of my good friends and neighbors." Pausing a moment to point toward the big tent where the meals were being carved and sandwiches distributed, he continued: "A number of those white aproned fellows that you see in that tent busy slicing meat and waiting on the people are my neighbors, who are helping me make this a real success. No men that I might have been able to hire for mere money could have created the splendid atmosphere that these good friends have. And the mayor and the men of Versailles have agreed that all stores shall be closed from 10 until 4 today. It is all co-operation. Tell your paper that this barbecue is as growing, progressive spirit that will make it a strong state in the near future.

Kentucky Has "Arrived."

It was not alone your correspondent who caught this feeling that seemed to be in the very air of the barbecue. Men who had traveled long distances to talk with the people about co-operation, men who had never faced a Kentucky audience before, sensed it. The evening of the barbecue three of the speakers gathered in Mr. Camden's home to chat over the happiness of the day. Twilight was deepening among the trees in the lawn and the last trolley car was leaving with the stragglers from the barbecue when one of the speakers turned to the others and said: "I'm going to make a statement, and I want you two fellows to say what you think of it. You, like me, happen to be from a far northern state, and you should be able to judge if I'm right in what I say." He stopped talking, looking out among the shadows that grew among the trees as if to gather his thoughts properly; then he continued: "I came down to this barbecue wondering what I would see. I had heard, of course, that Kentucky was beginning to think about co-operation, education and many other things. Why, she isn't beginning; she has begun. It was written large all over those people today. Things will happen in Kentucky from now on, and happen fast. SHE HAS ARRIVED. If I should leave roasting meat and night had settled over the hills the barbecue grounds became a mass of shifting grotesque shadows, savory odors and wood smoke. By early morning the five huge kettles were bubbling contentedly with rich, thick old fashioned burgoo. It seemed as if enough food had been prepared overnight to feed an army.

Several gentlemen were standing near one of the numerous tanks that were kept filled with ice and water for the thirsty crowd. At length one of them remarked: "I'm as thirsty as I can be, but I'm afraid to drink that water. It looks a little muddy, and I'm always afraid of getting typhoid fever when the water supply is as low as it is now after a long drought."

Water Was Analyzed.

The men were still hesitating when one of Mr. Camden's friends stepped up and remarked casually: "I think I can make you comfortable about the water. Mr. Camden usually does things up brown. He thought that there might be some danger, so he had this water analyzed to be on the safe side."

Each of the men took several deep drinks and looked much relieved.

A Crowd of 20,000.

The crowd? Oh, it was estimated all the way from 10,000 to 30,000. There must have been the full 20,000 that was given as the heading for this story of the barbecue because 1,000 automobiles were parked on the grounds and more than that number of vehicles, variety of soil, diversity of products and other blessings as our own beloved state—old Kentucky.

Mr. Camden's Address.

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—My friends, I give you, one and all, a most hearty welcome. I am truly delighted to have you here today.

"I hope you will allow me to tell you briefly what was in my mind when I decided to have this barbecue.

"Always in thinking of Kentucky I have a great inspiring vision. I have been in most of the states of the Union and have traveled in many lands, but I have never beheld a state or empire that has such material possibilities. I placed on the first page of our program the rural school symbol of Denmark, the owl perched on a spade, the union of wisdom and labor. To follow the matter still further, I will say that the unique and great little kingdom of Denmark has practically the same population as Kentucky, but Kentucky has almost three times as great an area, with an incalculably greater variety of resources. From the standpoint of a Kentuckian, the only resource that Denmark has is in her people, as it is a flat country with very thin soil, and we would consider it almost impossible to extract a living from it. It has no mines, no forests, no mills or manufacturing plants. It is devoted almost exclusively to dairy work. Its climate is bad, and ment. We are not living in the age of the conskin cap and long barreled rifle. Our times are strenuously competitive and the degree of our civilization very complex. Realizing this condition, we should set about intelligently, with determination and our eyes open, to learn the value of organization and co-operation and to fully understand the destructive quality of unintentional selfish individualism.

"We must establish team work among ourselves, we must trust one another, if we are to prosper further as a people and advance the solidarity of Kentucky interests.

Future of Kentucky.

"I have an unbounded faith in the future of Kentucky and in the ability

cles, variety of soil, diversity of products and other blessings as our own beloved state—old Kentucky.

"In ten years' time she will lead every state in the Union in the production of coal and, what is more, as time goes on will increase the lead and hold it, for she has a greater deposit of high grade coal than either Pennsylvania or West Virginia. It can also be truly said of Kentucky, as of almost any other country, that if we were absolutely isolated from the rest of the world we have within ourselves everything necessary for the development of a most advanced and prosperous civilization. We have in abundance the raw materials—iron, coking coal, timber, fire and porcelain clays, phosphate deposits, oil, gas and an endless variety of mineral wealth, a most varied soil, grazing lands and a beneficent climate.

Great Farming State.

"Yet, while the mineral wealth of the state is a vital thing and means more to us than we can now understand, to my mind the very soul and heart of Kentucky must always dwell in her farm lands and pastures, beautiful, gently rolling, the fairest and greenest the sun shines upon and fruitful as the delta of the Nile. Kentucky will ever be a great farming state, and the character of her agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Some one has well said that a people cannot be greater or stronger than their soil.

"What I wish to draw attention to today and to emphasize is the well recognized fact that in mining, manufacturing and all productive enterprises the basic form of wealth is in itself only about 50 per cent of the problem involved. The other 50 per cent is in organization, which really means co-operation. Granting that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do, though by intelligent and industrious methods it can be made to—now stand, with our imperfect system of soil education, organization and co-operation, we farmers are realizing but half of what we are entitled to from our farms.

Rural School System.

"As an illustration of what can be accomplished by education and co-operation, I placed on the first page of our program the rural school symbol of Denmark, the owl perched on a spade, the union of wisdom and labor. To follow the matter still further, I will say that the unique and great little kingdom of Denmark has practically the same population as Kentucky, but Kentucky has almost three times as great an area, with an incalculably greater variety of resources. From the standpoint of a Kentuckian, the only resource that Denmark has is in her people, as it is a flat country with very thin soil, and we would consider it almost impossible to extract a living from it. It has no mines, no forests, no mills or manufacturing plants. It is devoted almost exclusively to dairy work. Its climate is bad, and inhabitable beyond expression. There are only sixteen weeks in the year when it is possible to turn the cattle out. And then, for economy, they are tethered carefully in the fields, so that no grass or clover will be wasted by being trampled upon. In spite of these most unfavorable farming conditions, Denmark is the only country in the world today where the city population is decreasing and the rural population increasing, owing entirely to its advanced rural school system.

"Notwithstanding these adverse and harsh natural conditions the export of butter in 1911 was about 229,320,000 pounds, and to Great Britain alone it amounted to $51,142,715. The total amount of cream and milk exported amounted to $4,121,520.

"The money value of eggs exported in the same year amounted to $7,900,000.

"The export of bacon from Denmark in the same year amounted to 252,252,000 pounds, or a cash value of $32,352,960, making a total cash valuation of exports of $95,953,195, in addition to what was consumed at home.

Denmark's Example.

"Furthermore, the country is so flat and wet that the dreaded foot and mouth disease (practically unknown to us) has to be unceasingly watched.

"This truly marvelous result was brought about by education, co-operation and governmental aid. It was really through great misfortune and distress that the Danes worked out these great results and evolved into a wonderful people. In 1863, when Bismarck annexed Schleswig-Holstein, Denmark was in the blackest despair. Financial ruin stared her in the face. It was then determined to try to lift the dark cloud that enveloped her by establishing the rural schools which now dot every part of her country.

Individualism Harmful.

"With us the chief obstacle to organization and co-operation, to my mind, is the intense individualism of the Kentuckian. That spirit of self reliance, indomitable will and courage to stand alone and all sufficient, which made him the greatest pioneer the world has ever known, is in a measure a detriment now and blocks his further progress and material develop-of Kentuckians to do things when their attention and interests are centered upon those things. It is because of my ambition and hope to personally help in quickening this movement that I decided to give this barbecue. Telling you again of the pleasure it gives me in having you here today, I will now turn over the proceedings of the day to the chairman."

Perilous Boating.

On the west coast of Ireland, near the mouth of the river Shannon, are several large sea caves which open into each other. But the visitor needs a good guide and a good boatman, for the sea in its labyrinthine and the labyrinth of caves intricate. On one occasion, writes Aubrey de Vere in his "Recollections," soon after a party had entered the boatman suddenly shouted, "Bend down your heads for your lives!"

No one saw any danger, but the boatman felt the placid water insensibly rising and knew that the tide had turned. At last the visitors knew this, too, for it was not until the boat had ascended within a few inches of the roof that it began to descend.

"Pull your best!" exclaimed the man at the helm. "If the second wave reaches us, we are lost!" But before the second wave reached the cave the boat had issued from its mouth.

No Wonder She Blushed.

"That's a nice looking fellow who's just come in," said the young man who was dining with his best girl. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"Yes, indeed, I know him well," laughed the maiden.

"Shall I ask him to join us?"

"Oh, George," said the girl, blushing, "this is so sudden!"

"Sudden? What do you mean?" he asked in surprise.

"Why—why, that's our young minister."—Ladies' Home Journal.

He Could Talk.

much Woodford county's success as it is mine. It is a success because of neighborly co-operation."

Neighborly Atmosphere.

That the huge crowd that began to arrive as early as 8 o'clock felt this atmosphere of neighborliness and co-operation, of which Mr. Camden had spoken, was evident. It was a gathering of people who were thinking; a crowd that had come to see and hear others who were thinking; a crowd that had on its "Sunday go to meeting" clothes and manners, for there was not a loud voice or a quarrelsome tone on the grounds the whole day through. Even the babies and children forgot to fret or cry while their mothers chatted with friends under the shade of the forest trees, and the men discussed crops and the drought. Everywhere there were good natured, pleasant laughter and smiling faces. It is not often that a host can entertain 20,000 guests and have nothing to mar the day. The meeting showed conclusively that there is a new spirit abroad in this wonderful old state—a here and be gone ten years I would not be able to recognize the state, I'm sure, because it will have changed so materially in that time. Am I right, fellows?"

"Sure you're right," answered the others in a breath.

Of course they had something to eat. By 1 o'clock the afternoon of the 19th wagons loaded with choice beef began to arrive, and old George Jaubert hurried about to see that the coals in the trenches were as warm as they should be and that the frames to hold the meat were steady for such a mighty load.

Preparing the Food.

Eighteen busy colored men sat on empty boxes chatting while they peeled and cut the fifty bushels of potatoes that were to be used in the making of the burgoo. When the 6,000 pounds of beef were in place over the glowing coals hay frame loads of dressed mutton came to the tables to be prepared for the trenches. It required three wagons to bring the 110 sheep that were to help feed the multitude. Later after the frames were full of gently cles were just behind them. Allowing an average of five people to the vehicles and automobiles gives 10,000. The interurban cars gave their figures as 5,000. Add to this 15,000, those that walked, those that came on horseback, on bicycles and motorcycles, and you will find that 20,000 is about right. These figures may be got at in another manner. In preparing to serve the burgoo to the people 14,000 tin cups and spoons had been provided, and they did not go around. Anyhow, it was fully as big a crowd as any one had hoped for.

Thirteen Speakers.

As there were thirteen speakers during the day, it would be an impossibility to give any idea of what they said. It is sufficient to say that each and every talk was educational in its tone. That the state at large may get an idea of all the talks it might be well to give Mr. Camden's address of welcome in whole. He seems to have caught and hugged close to himself the feeling that would show itself in the crowd at the barbecue, the feel-
